WORKING IN GROUPS

Group work is an effective way to bring together a wide range of

- abilities and talents
- points of view

The key to a well functioning group is accepting

- individual differences
- everyone has something worthwhile to give

The more angles an issue is viewed from

- the greater your understanding of it
- the better it can be approached

When setting up a group it is important to

- have a variety of personalities, talents and skills
- avoid a group of similar thinking clones

Aim to include people such as:

Organiser - sets up group so all members can contribute

Starter - gets everyone going

Gopher - collects information

Listener - thinks about the group's direction

Timer - keeps the group aware of timelines

Finisher - presents the group's work in a stylish way

Energiser - encourages the group to push on

Teamwork nearly always achieves success.
